Lawyer Howland Replies to Mr. Duyster's Arguments.

ZIMMER DESERTS JOHNSON.

Brotherhood Detectives Alleged to be After J. A. Day.

THE SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

Ex-Judge Howland, in behalf of the Players' League, replies to Attorney Duyster's arguments and deals with the reserve clause. Catcher Zimmer leaves the Brotherhood and signs a National League contract. It is claimed that Brotherhood detectives are shadowing President Day, of New York, and arrests have been made.

PERCIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. NEW YORK, December 19 .- To get some idea of the course to be pursued in the defense of John Ward in the approaching equity suit, to be instituted by the National League, a DISPATCH reporter to-day interviewed ex-Judge Howland, of the firm of Anderson & Howland, who will be associated with Judge Bacon in the conduct of all cases brought against the players. Judge Howland was shown the statement made by Counselor Duyster for the other side; said Judge Howland: "As far as the statement of Mr. Duyster that the present contract was not a form of contract forced upon the players by the National League magnates, but one which the players demanded, is concerned, can say unhesitatingly that it is not correct. A man at that time was at the complete mercy of the magnates. None of the clubs working under the national agreement would employ a player who had been placed on the reserve list by a manager of a club which had employed the player the previous year and they sold them without regard to all rights and justice. SCORES THE MAGNATES.

"No: the League magnates made that contract themselves and without any consultation with the players. The latter were asked, after, the contracts had been perfected, to acquiesce in the conditions, and after some modifications they consented, including the eighteenth clause. What the meaning of that clause is the Court will have to determine after a full presentation of the manner in which the clause was placed in the contract, and the construcwas placed in the contract, and the construc-tion given to it by practice and by representa-tion of the managers,"

"Did not the players, in signing that con-tract, agree to accept all the provisions of the same, including the reserve clause?"

"Yes; but what does the word reserve mean 'in this particular? Absolutely nothing. In the first place, the player contracts to play for seven months, and no longer.

THE RESERVE CLAUSE.

"That breaks all the effects of the reserve clause. Then, again, the word reserve was not placed in the contracts, so that an option could be had on a player's services for more than a year, and it was so explained by the magnates to the players at the time of signing. Is it a hardship to be held for two years? It is a very great hardship, indeed, if you sign to do one thing and you are compelled to do another, just as the League magnates want the players to do. It's a big mistake to say that the reserve clause means the holding of a player for two ciause means the holding of a payer for two years. It is a well-known fact that there have been players held for a longer time and not asked to sign a contract either. I express no fears of the result of any application made to the court of the injunction after it is in full possession of the facts."

ZIMMER IS THE LATEST.

He'Deserts the Brotherhood and Signs an Old Lengue Contract.

PRINCIAL TRUEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE 1 EVELAND, December 19,-Charles L. Zimmer, the crack catcher of the Cleveland League seam of 1889, to-day affixed his signature to a League contract for 1890. Zimmer signed a Brotherhood document several weeks ago and that Zimmer would be perfectly safe in con-tracting to play with the League. The $250 was returned to Al Joinson, and Zimmer signed the League contract at a comfortable increase over

Zimmer sent the following telegram to Ward:
"John M. Ward, New York City: Please accept my resignation as a member of the Brotherhood. (Signed) Chas. L. Zimmer." His letter to Al Johnson, with a $200 draft inclosed, was as follows: "Mr. Al Johnson: I have hereby availed myself of the right which all men have, of withdrawing from any society or organization with the workings of which they may have become dissatisfied. Inclosed please find the $200 loaned me December 5. (Signed) Chas. L. Zimmer." After these details had been concluded Zimmer signed a personal contract with the Cleveland League team for three years. It was not a question of money that influenced him to this action, for he actually receives less than promised by the Brotherhood. ceives less than promised by the Brotherhood. He says that he is disgusted with the way in which the concern is run, and breathed easy to-day for the first time since he was foolish ugh to sign the agreement last summer.

play with the Pittsburg Brotherhood club. This would seem to settle the matter. No news has been received from Carroll yet.

Regarding the new grounds Mr. Kerr said yesterday: "There is plenty of time to get the grounds ready, and they will be easier put in shape than many people imagine. However, we are prepared to spend money, and if there is a fight we'll be there. But I fail to see why there should be any bitter feeling in the matter. If the public is disposed to support one club in preference to another, why, let it go that way. If all this bitterness of feeling was imported into any of the other businesses in the city, why, we would be in continual misery. Yes, Hanlon states that Fields has accepted our advance money and has emphatically declared himself on our side. Dave Orr may come here, but there is nothing certain about any other players that I know of. Manager Hanlon is hustling after some good men."

The Brotherhood Charged With Shadowing the Popular President.

PECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. NEW YORK, December 19.-President John B. DOWN ON THE LEAGUE. Some Strong Words Against Those Who

Some Strong Words Against Those Who Sign Two Contracts.

The Clipper, an out-and-out supporter of the Brotherhood, has the following to say about the system of signing two contracts:

No one questions the integrity of the National League magnates, yet it hardly seems the proper thing for some of those rentlemen to stoop to mesus that will in any way cast a reflection on their transactions. The fact that some of thom have been guilty of encouraging their old players in dishourest dealing, by inducing them to sign a second contract, is not commendable. If the players have been guilty of any wrongdoing, or have violated any basebal law, then redress can be obtained by fair and bonorable means. On the other hand, if the players are in the right, then those men who were weak enough to sign two contracts will certainly be punished. No honorable person can admire anyone who would be guilty of double dealing, such as some of the players are in the wrong, and the courts so decide it, then the old clubs can obtain their players, or as many of them as they want, without resorting to underhand means, but if they are in the right, then they have, the prior claim to the services of all these men who have signed two contracts. The excuses these men have offered for their action of signing two contracts are very weak. If they had no faith in the mew league, why did not they wait multi the matter had been settled in the courts? If the decision had been against the new league, then they could have gone to the old League with a clear conscience, feeling that they only did what they chought was right. As it is, they will be despised by every honest thinking person. Then, on the other hand, should the case be settled in favor of the new league, where will these men be and who will have any faith in them?

Manager McBride, of the Bradford club, which is a member of the New York and Penn which is a member of the New York and Pennsylvania League, was in the city yesterday. Last evening he signed Pitcher Jones and Catcher Hess, of last season's Pittsburgs, and Second Baseman Rowe and Rightfielder Armour, of the Homestead club. Jones and Hess are to receive $150 each per month. James was recently asked to sign a Brotherhood contract, but declined.

During a conversation Manager McBride said: "Jones, of course, was reserved by the Pittsburg club, but it was provisional, and the Pittsburg officials have not asked him to sign. Our league is under the national agreement, and of course we know that we are acting in accordance with the rules. The prospects of our organization are very encouraging. It will consist of eight clubs, viz: Olean, Jamestown, Dunkirk and Elmira in New York State, and Meadville, Erie, Bradford in Pennsylvania. The eighth club will probably be Troy or Syracuse. We will have a good team at Bradford, as we are selecting the best men we can get in our class." our class."

The quartet of local players signed by Manager Mcbride will, undoubtedly, give a good account of themselves.

He is getting the views of the carsmen on the matter. Teemer answered, as he did before, that he thought it the proper thing, and that he could be counted on to take part in it. He is of the opinion that it is probably better than the sweepstake idea, and is of the opinion that carsmen should each set up an entrance fee is of the opinion that it is probably better than the sweepstake idea, and is of the opinion that carsmen should each put up an entrance fee beside the $8,000 purse of Mr. Phayer, as it will make it all the more interesting to the carsmen. This, he says, would be similar to the great international regatta which was rowed in London on the Thames in 1876. He is ready for it and hopes that it will be a go. In the event of Mr. Thayer's regatta taking place he will postpone his Australian visit. Speaking of the remarks of James A. St. John stating "that Teemer has no right to claim the champlonishin." Teemer says:

"What's wrong with St. John now? Has he come back to aquatics again after retiring positively forever? I did not and do not claim the championship title. I lay no claim to fit neither did I make remarks of any kind to be construed that way; but I mean to contest for it. I am a candidate for it, and I am going to compete with all professionals who row for it. That's all the claim I have to it. I hope to row for it whenever it is to be rowed for. Neither O'Conner or any oarsman in America has any claim to the title: if it belongs to anyone it is to Stansbery. Searle defeated O'Connor, Kemp and Stansbery, and the latter gave him the hardest of the three races. This is my reason for saying that Stansbery can lay claim to the title."

after the holidays to invite the St. Louis and Louisville clubs to join the Western Association. The St. Paul and Minneapolis managers are enthusiastically in favor of the project. President Thompson, of St. Paul, said this afternoon that such a move had been expected for some time, and intimated that letters had already been passing. Mr. Thompson said he was certain that no attempt would be made to reorganize the American Association, and that if St. Louis played ball at all in 1890 it would be with the Western Association.

Mr. Von der Ahe's remarks in New York yesterday were a hint at what he intended to do. If Louisville asks to come in the Kentucky club will be admitted without question. Mr. Thompson was in doubt as to what would be done about the number of clubs. The organization is now composed of eight clubs, and the admission of two more would make a ten-club league. He was not in favor of dropping Sloux City and Des Moines, because both had raised enough money to guarantee them the season, and all the other cities can support themselves. The votes of both St. Paul and Minneapolis will be cast in favor of a ten-club league.

The costumes of the girls formed to-morrow. The costumes of the girls were made of light gauze and trimmed with cotten batting. One of the performers had a wand with which she accidentally struck a candle, igniting the wand. The flames were communicated to the children's clothing, and all were burned more or less.

Five who were enveloped in flames ran into the street where some workmen rolled them in the mud and extinguished tile flames. Jennie Lancashire was burned to death, however, and the other four seriously but not fatally injured. The fire, which in the meantine had communicated to the floor of the schoolhouse, was extinguished without difficulty.

After a brief inspection of the offices of the insurance company, the party walked to the Wall street entrance of the Stock Exchange, escorted by Inspector Williams and a squad of policemen. A few words of welcome from President Bull were briefly responded to by Delegate Aragon, of Costa Rica, and then the party filed into the Southern gallery and watched the proceeding on the floor below. The scene to one unaccustomed to it was a pandemonium, and the delegates failed to understand, until it was explained to them, that the rushing, struggling, shouting crowd was a gathering of brokers doing a business of millions every hour. The party watched the scene for a few moments, and then Mr. Hughes, of the committee which was escorting them, called for three cheers for the New York Stock Exchange. The delegates responded heartily, and the thousand members on the floor crowded over in front of the gallery and returned the compliment with vigor. Then the boys—out of compliment with vigor. Then the boys—out of compliment with vigor. Then the boys—out of compliment with vigor. The bulls were in control, and the Missouri Pacific pole happened to be nearest the corner of the gallery around which the party was congregated. They picked up that stock and sent it kiting. An advance of two points, representing a gain in market value of $2,000, was made before they stopped their pounding. The Lieutenant Gavernor of Montana Has Established a New Precedent. HELENA, MONT., December 19.—The Senate completed its organization to-day by the election of officers. There were four Senators and the Lieutenant Governor present. The Seven Bemocrats refused to vote, but the presiding officer declared the seven Republican members made a quorum, and after the election of a President pro tem a majority of the Democrats retired from the chamber. The Senate appointed a committee of three to wait on the Republican House and inform that body that the Senate was organized and ready for business.

Some of the brokers caught sight, of Inspector Williams' stalwart figure at the opposite end of the gallery, and they greeted him with all manner of jocose remarks. They challenged him to come upon the floor, without club, and offered to make it lively for himperhaps in payment of old scores.

From the Exchange the party walked to the Chamber of Commerce, which they reached at 2:30 o'ctock. They rested for a few minutes before the exercises which had been arranged, and in the interval General Sherman entered, escorted by Mr. Hughes, The delegates greeted him with great enthusiasm, and the old warrior held quite a reception. President Charles S. Smith made a short andress of welcome. Delegate Aragon, the only merchant among the foreign members of the conference, responded. The Chamber of Commerce of New York and other public-spirited institutions, he said, furnished the inspiration which was guiding the members of the conference in their efforts.

General Sherman was introduced by President Smith, with a reference to the "march to the sea," and received a hearty welcome. the Supreme Bench.
